
Privacy Policy

AARES has a strong commitment to privacy.

The personal information that we collect when you use our website

You can be certain that the information we receive about you will be treated as strictly confidential.

We do not collect or use any personal information on visitors to our website through the use of "cookies" or other software or hardware techniques.

The circumstances under which we disclose information about you

It is our policy not to sell or pass on any personal information that you may have provided to us unless we have your express consent to do so. An exception to this is where AARES may be required by law to disclose certain information.

List of conference delegates

A list of AARES conference delegates and their contact information is made available to all conference delegates. This information is only available for delegates that have given permission upon registration for the conference.

Collecting and Using User Information

Our site uses forms for conference delegates to register and pay to attend the annual conference. We collect users' contact information (e.g., name and e-mail address) and financial information (e.g., account or credit card numbers). This information is used to communicate information about the conference and bill the user for registration, only.

Security

Our site has security measures in place to protect the loss, misuse and alteration of the information under our control, but we cannot guarantee that our security measures will prevent third-party "hackers" from illegally obtaining this information.
